

High School Science Teachers and other Keeners!

Join us for

Teachers' Forestry 101 Bootcamp

August 17th-19th 2016 (tentatively)

If you're interested contact us right away. Space is limited. Please email this form to: info@whitebirch.ca.

Contact: 306-763-2189 or 306-953-8921 for more details.

- Immerse yourself in an outdoor learning experience
- Learn from experts about forest ecology and wildlife, sustainable forest management, planning, harvesting, and regeneration, natural disturbance, forest fires and climate change
- Explore cultural views and traditional connections to forests
- Visit a mill, see an active harvesting operation, tour regeneration sites, compare a variety of forest types
- Network with your peers and forestry experts
- Replenish your environmental sciences lesson plan toolkit with fresh ideas, broadened understanding, and renewed inspiration

What last year's participants said: "Lots of networking opportunities and hands on learning – BRAVO!"

"Tour allows teachers of all levels to become more aware of the forest and be able to integrate knowledge into specific subjects."

"I would recommend this to other teachers. It was a great learning experience. It will help me make outdoor education more meaningful."

"Fantastic location! I want to come back! Treated like family!"

"...enjoyed the food and atmosphere...friendly staff"

"The camp was great and the sauna was awesome."

Yes, I'm interested! Please send me more information about the Teachers' Forestry Bootcamp 2016.
